

A Truckers Wife.com

For Wives and Girlfriends of Truckers everywhere...

Running a household, raising children or just dealing with being alone can be a daunting task when your man is home and away. As a trucker's wife, I wanted to meet other women in the same situation and offer them resources to help with this lifestyle.

On the website, among other things, you will find community forums, contests, articles, trucker's resources, road conditions, job and company website listings, poems and free online cards.

I would like to invite you to visit the website and have a look around. Please feel free to join in on the community forums for some chit chat and a great support system!

What Folks are Saying About ATruckersWife.com

"I just read almost everything on your website and I think it's great. I've been a trucker's wife now for 20 years and believe me it doesn't get any easier. To come to this website and hear of others and know what's going on everywhere, roads and weather reports really help the mind a lot. Hope it stays up and running for a long time, Thanks Christie"
